

HANDICAPER'S SELECTIONS - Les

Sunday, November 19, 2017 (12:30 PM Post Time)

Race 1 6-3-5

All Access It's been a while since his last win but with back to back seconds he could be sitting on one. Despite the outside post he gets top billing.

Jamiesmilincowboy He tends to lag at the start but in a compact field like this with not much early speed, it shouldn't be a problem. He's a top contender.

Slide Guitar He's displayed a pretty good finishing kick on occasion so if he's anywhere close at the top of the stretch he's possible tri material.

Race 2 2-5-3

Momara Hasn't looked totally out of her element against much better than she meets here so dropping to this level should be most welcome. Her best effort will make her hard to deny.

Fitelle His last two starts at this level produced top three finishes so we'll look for that trend to continue today.

Wandasbettorchoice Drops a notch on the class ladder after a decent showing last time out. Looks to have as good a shot as any at cracking the top three.

Race 3 6-1-4

Heart And Soul Burned a lot of money last time out but maybe it just wasn't his day. As we've said in the past, he's always loved this track so we'll look for him to redeem himself today.

Instant Shadow He's been a risky play as the chalk as those recent starts will attest to. That being said, he gets the rail and Marc and that combination makes him a force to be reckoned with.

D J Supreme He's an unknown but any horse that brings lines like that with him deserves respect.

Race 4 6-7-5

Mr Pogge This one is wide open so the tote board might be your best friend. This guy is a pretty good finisher so if he can get some live cover to take him to the top of the stretch he could get it all.

Do Well Hill Not one of his best efforts last time out but he's better than that. He's got the gate speed to overcome the post and if he can get spotted handy the front his chances go way up.

Celebrate Your Bet He draws inside what looks to be his main challenger for the bronze and for that reason alone we'll make him a tri candidate.

Race 5 1-4-5

Beechwood Tiger Drops back to the level where he had three straight on the board finishes and if that's not enough to get you interested, he gets his first inside post in ages. Top call.

Midnight Play He was a non factor last time out but look at the company he was keeping in starts prior to that. We're a little wary but if he brings his "A" game he could be right in the hunt.

Threestepstoheaven He was forced to come three wide last time after his cover packed it in. If he can get behind one that doesn't walk today he could make his presence felt.

Value play Beechwood Tiger

Race 6 2-5-1

Silverhill Buddy He's really taken it up a notch the past couple of months and has five top three finishes from his last six tries. Form like that coupled with an ideal post makes him quite possibly the one to beat.

Blacky Black He goes in 1:59 or better every time he steps on the track and you would have to think if he goes there again today, he should get a good piece of this one.

Desired Treasure Might go into shock when he looks to his left and doesn't see a bunch of horses. His first inside post in quite some time makes him worth considering.

Race 7 4-1-5

Likely To Win This is a solid group but they're not quite of the calibre that he faces on a weekly basis. Matching any of his recent efforts makes him the one to knock off.

Harbourlite Jerry Had to come from well off the pace last time out, something that's not likely to be repeated today with him landing on the pylons. The trip he should get from here could put him right in the thick of it.

Jetta Flies He was right there last week against some high calibre opposition and drops a notch for this one. Loses Corey but Jason is a pretty good replacement, don't you think.

Race 8 4-1-3

Three Truths Drops to a level that's unfamiliar territory for him and if he turns in an effort like we all know he's capable of, there could be nothing to stand in his way.

Chevalier Semalu He was simply too far back in his last couple to have had an impact but rail control today should provide a much better beginning. The class relief won't hurt either.

RES Nancy She's now hit the board in six straight, the last three at this level. She's a legitimate contender.

Race 9 1-3-2

Nogreatmischief He's been a beaten favourite in his last two which doesn't instill a lot of confidence. Having said that, we all know what he's capable of and maybe divine intervention will play a role today.

Eagle Jolt He finished out of the top three in back to back starts for the first time in ages. Can anyone see the streak reaching three? We can't.

Tempo Seelster Steps up after last weeks win but it's not like he hasn't been here before. Recent results indicate that he now prefers to be handy the front and he should be from here. He's got some credibility.

Longshot play Jeb

Race 10 1-5-7

Mozartsplace He's become quite camera shy this year after an incredible 2016 season. He's been struggling lately but the rail can cure a lot of ills and when you couple that with the class relief, he's clearly the one to beat.

Political Crisis He's hit the board in half his starts this year and even when he doesn't he's usually right there and seldom misses a cheque. Could be the best of the rest.

Old Buck The seven hole is a big obstacle to overcome but it might be offset by the competition as compared to what he's used to. A smoother journey than he had last time could land him in the top three.

Most probable Mozartsplace

Race 11 3-7-2

Keep Coming Gets some big time class relief for this one and when you couple that with a much more favourable post than he had in his last two he could be sitting on a big one.

Ultimatelyhandsome He'll have his work cut out for him after drawing out here but since he's been on the board in two out of every three starts this year against better than these, he's got what it takes to overcome it.

Mach Of Ballykeel He can kick home as well as any of them and this post should have him spotted well enough to exploit it. Don't sell him short.

Race 12 4-6-3

Adkins Hanover His modest winning streak came to an end last week after doing all the road work but it was still a big effort. Should have a fairly easy path to the front today and if Corey can steal a fraction it could be all over.

Rose Run Quest He landed here right around OHW and still hasn't finished out of the top three. It's not likely to happen today either.

Red Magician He's razor sharp right now with six top three finishes from his last eight tries and an excellent shot at adding to those totals in here.

Race 13 1-7-5

Jetster He shows a second and third one and two steps up the class ladder from this and that alone makes him the logical choice. The rail just adds to his appeal.

Narragansett The seven hole isn't a big deal because he can race just as well, if not better from off the pace. What is a big deal is the heaping helping of class relief he gets. He'll give a good account of himself.

Dilans Mustang We're not thrilled with his win percentage but he does have lots of second and third place finishes thanks to that dangerous late kick. Could have some say in the outcome.
