

HANDICAPER'S SELECTIONS - Les

Thursday September 13 (6:30 PM Post Time)

Race 1 4-2-1

Boom Boom Gigolo He's been finding the sledding a little tough on the stakes circuit but he had a solid performance in his only crack at this level. He's a potential sleeper.

Glasgow Gracie Gets an excellent post to work from in a race with no clear standout. She'll give them all they can handle.

Lucy With Diamonds You gotta like the way she kicked home in her first for a purse and since she'll likely be a little handier the front from the rail, a similar closing panel makes her a tri candidate.

Value play Boom Boom Gigolo

Race 2 5-3-6

Holy Molie Maggie Couldn't deliver as the chalk last time in one of the strangest races you'll ever see. Gets a chance to redeem herself tonight and we're betting that she will.

Mile Hill Mac He's a high risk proposition with all those breaks but there's no question the speed is there. Will he trot or won't he? It's your call.

Diamond Mine The back class advantage the old fella has over the remaining contenders should be more than enough to put him on the ticket.

Race 3 2-5-1

Lyndale Coco She moves back inside, is reunited with Jason and catches a vulnerable group so if she's ever going to dispose of that maiden tag, this could be the time.

Sports Highlights She's not exactly headed in the right direction but she's the only one in here with a win and that's gotta count for something. She's worth considering.

Oh To Be You With a 60% top three record for her career and rail control she gets the nod to round out the tri.

Race 4 1-6-3

West River Cindy She had a decent juvenile season but she's really taken it up a notch as a sophomore offering a not worse than second record, fastest win time on the page and the most money earned. The rail just adds to her appeal.

Buddy White Raced aged horses last time out where he was okay but now that he's back with the three year olds, where he's had a solid campaign, he could be the best of the rest.

Majian Gilroy He's got pretty good gate speed but the recent breaks are cause for concern. If he can negotiate the start mistake free and get spotted on or near the lead he's a legitimate contender.

Race 5 5-1-7

Scout Out Of Here She's in dire need of a confidence boost and facing opposition like this might provide it. Matching any of her recent efforts will make her hard to deny.

Bugtown Superstar She's been a little tardy off the gate in recent starts but landing on the pylons tonight should provide a better beginning and put her right in the hunt.

Pictonian Sareta Tough trip in her latest and there's no guarantee it will be any better tonight with the same post. Gets Kenny tonight and sometimes a change is as good as anything else.

Race 6 3-8-6

Little Miss Winnie Gets a big time post advantage over what looks to be her main rival and appears to have a fairly easy path to the front. Once there, there could be nothing but open road ahead.

Dusty Lane Titan He's firing on all cylinders right now with three straight wins but he draws way outside our top choice which might be the difference maker.

Dusty Lane Mavis This is the area she's had to work from in her last two, each resulting in second place finishes, so she could be worth including in your exotics.

Race 7 4-6-7

Something Royal Perhaps we're grasping at straws but if you like to play trends, look at the results of her last four starts. You can probably see where we're going with this.

Woodmere Sapphire She's racing okay but she's just a little too camera shy to put on top. That being said, she still looks like a top contender.

Kinross Kate She has the best top three percentage and the most money earned and while we're not sure she can get a trip from out here, she could be dangerous if she does.

Longshot play House Of Style

Race 8 2-7-3

Buckaroo He's never been out of the top three in two years of racing, holds a few track records and gets a post that should provide an uncontested lead. What's not to like?

Windemeredontworry Lost all hope with the break last time but to his credit he fought his way back into contention. The post is a big obstacle to overcome but if he's mistake free he'll be right in the thick of it.

Daisy River She's been on the board in seven of eight this year and while she was basically handed that last win, it doesn't say that on the cheque. This ideal spot to work from gives her a good shot at adding to those totals.

Most probable Buckaroo

Race 9 3-1-4

Bettim Vicky Races much better when she's able to control her own destiny which begs the question, can she make the front? If she does, her chances go way up.

Bad Silver Steps back up slightly in class but with a post that could afford the same kind of trip she had last week she's a force to be reckoned with.

Selfie Kicked home in 28 and change in her last two to just miss hitting the board and now drops back to the level that produced her most recent win. She's possible tri material.

Race 10 5-2-4

Majian Tango He was a bang up second in his last two and look who the guy was that beat him. Since he doesn't have to contend with that fella tonight we'll treat him as the one to beat.

Friell Seeker He's been on his best behaviour for the past few weeks and it shows in his results. Looks like the front is his for the taking and if Kenny can steal a fraction he'll have some say in the outcome.

Glencove Carter He's been on the board in 75% of his starts the past two years and there's not a horse in here that's won more races during the current campaign. Consistency like that makes him hard to leave out.

Race 11 5-3-7

Traces Of Purple Picked up a new speed badge when she raced at this level two starts back and last time out was simply beaten by a red hot horse. With her dropping back she's the one to knock off, especially if she brings her best.

Windemere Nancy She almost delivered as the longshot play last week but she'll not slip under the radar much longer with three straight charted miles in 1:57. If she goes there again tonight she'll make her presence felt.

Julep Hanover Steps up slightly after last weeks win but she's been here and much higher before and acquitted herself well. Since she just won out of the seven hole we don't see any reason she can't be part of the equation again.

Race 12 2-7-3

Outrageous Spirit Her wins come in bunches if you can remember earlier in the year and after last week her confidence could be restored. Don't rule out a repeat.

Perfect Raider She's severely compromised by the draw but it could be offset by the drop in class. Any kind of racing luck at all could put her right in the picture.

Swingirl Doesn't have a stellar win record but there's tons of second and third place finishes there. Be prepared for another one tonight.
